TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 6, 1885.

TO-DAY'S ELECTIONS.

This is an important day, politically.
Ten States will vote, viz: Connecticut, Maine, Massachusetts, Minnesota, Mississippi, Nebraska, New Jersey,
New York, Pennsylvania and Virginia.
The Times has already published a list of the officers to be elected in each State, with the party vote cast in each at the last preceding State election. Much speculation as to the result of to-day's voting would be idle. It may be said, however, with a fair measure of safety, that in Connecticut, Minnesota, Nebraska, New York and Pennsylvania, there are good prospects of Republican success; that the Democrats are pretty sure to carry Maryland, Mississippi and New Jersey; and that Virginia and Massachusetts are in the doubtful list, with leanings towards the wrong side.The New York Sun, looking beyond the elections of to-day to the presidential contest, does some figuring of a sort that is cheering to the Democratic heart. Maryland, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Mississippi, New Jersey and New York, which the Sun classes as probably Democratic, give electoral votes. Add to them Alabama, 10; Arkansas, 7; California, 8; Delaware, 3; Florida, 4; Georgia, 12; Kentucky, 13; Louisiana, 8; Missouri, 16; Nevada, 3; North Carolina, 11; South Carolina, 9; Tennessee, 12; Texas, 13; and West Virginia, 6, and there would be an aggregate of 217, or 16 more than are required to elect a President next year. The 14 electors of Massachusetts could be omitted, and there would still be, according to the Sun's hopeful figuring, a surplus of 2 to spare beyond the 201 votes needed under the last apportionment.The Sun is over-confident. It is an amazing hardihood that would claim for the Democracy, in a national contest, the States of Massachusetts, Connecticut, New York, California and Nevada.The result of to-day's contest, whatever it may be, will be accepted, whether correctly or not, by very many as pointing strongly to the issue of next year's national contest.
These are the last important State elections that will be held before the presidential election, and whichever party wins will have heavily upon the political capital so gained. The result, however, will settle nothing, as it is certain to be a mixed one. In fact, this is a mighty good year for mixed political results.BETTER reports come from the fever districts. A letter from Cordell Willard, of Guyanese, a citizen of Tom-stone, says: "The fever here is about wound up; no deaths from it for five days; a few sick, but it is of a military; all new-comers get it. The fever now resembles the 'tonto'. The symptoms in the beginning are precisely like the 'tonto', but after a certain time in severe cases they change into something worse. In Mazatlan it is about over; also in Hermosillo.
The board of health here, within a day or two, give clean bills of health to all vessels." Later reports, by telegraph, however, are less favorable.Go as she may in to-day's contest the State of New York is a Republican State. Here are the figures to prove it. The largest vote ever cast in the State for Garfield in 1880, and the figure was 555,000. Last year Cleveland received 535,000 votes for governor. Garfield's vote was 20,000 larger than was ever cast for any Democratic candidate in the State. If the Democrats can extract soap from a stone, they can draw comfort from these figures."GER-HUSALUM!" Sunset Cox knocked flatter than a flounder by the Ventura correspondent of the Los Angeles Times. "This is the irreverent way in which the Ventura Signal talks about the luminous literature of a favorite correspondent, who descried in our columns 'the glorious figure which burned rampant in the East each evening at sunset.' Why this brotherly sarcasm, Mr. Sheridan?"BEN BUTLER'S red-hot campaign has ended and the voting is on in the old Bay State. John Billings once remarked that "one honest, if he feels well, can break up a campmeeting." Ben Butler is a political honest, and appears to have been feeling very well throughout the campaign. The chances are that the camp meeting will be broken up.ASSISTANT ATTORNEY GENERAL FRANKLIN, of the postoffice department, has prepared a decision requiring all newspapers to number the pages of their supplements in running order with the pages of the regular issue. This is the proper mode of putting in a newspaper supplement.
